VOL. XXIII. PORTLAND, OREGON: MONDAY, MARCH 12, 1883. NO. 7126.

THE EAST.

A Crowd of More than 1000 Persons Attend the Funeral of Jemmy Elliott.

The Road from Portland to Kalama to be Built Immediately.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

[illegible], March 10.—Vice-President Oakes informed a reporter that the contract for the road [illegible] Portland and Kalama has been signed with [illegible] & Co. Length 40 miles to be [illegible] September 1st. The Columbia river will [illegible] by an iron ferryboat capable of carrying [illegible], and which has been shipped in [illegible] to Portland to arrive September 1st. The [illegible] will be worked like that at Havre de Grace on the Pennsylvania road some years ago. Besides this [illegible] now remains 300 miles in Montana [illegible] completed, will give through connection from Lake Superior to Portland. Over 180 miles of this has been graded, and all will be completed by September.

Notable Funerals.

New York, March 11.—Two notable funerals occurred. The first was that of Michael Ko[illegible] [illegible] Friday. An immense throng [illegible] to the cemetery. The other in [illegible] squalid part of Canal street, [illegible] tumbled down rookery. Early in [illegible] Bowery roughs, and his equally [illegible] female companions, began to gather. [illegible] The theme of conversation was "Poor [illegible]." On the second floor lay the body [illegible] in a cloth covered oaken [illegible] by flowers. Over it hung the [illegible] that hung over the body of [illegible] Vanderbilt. At 1:30 six men,

PALL BEARERS

[illegible] high hats, white regalia and mourning [illegible] the room. Among them were Jack [illegible], Jimmie McGlynn, ex Alderman [illegible] Johnson, Jimmie Dunn, Red Leary, "Shang" Draper [illegible] of the Philadelphia police, and Matt [illegible] carried the casket to the street, a [illegible] began to moan, but they were [illegible] and the coffin quietly borne to the [illegible]. The procession then formed, the pall bearers [illegible] men and boys following, after [illegible] 130 coaches. After the usual [illegible] Calvary cemetery, Jimmy Elliott [illegible] his last home. Every well known [illegible] present. A large force of police [illegible].

Dr. Dix on Divorce.

[illegible]—Dr. Dix last night delivered [illegible] on women, which have [illegible] discussion. He inveighs bitterly [illegible] evils of the divorce system and [illegible] England. He said divorces occur [illegible] fourteen marriages. The practical [illegible] of divorce is that in the [illegible] 1000 families are broken [illegible] divorced, and the laws [illegible] have been gradually weakened [illegible] in 30 years, divorces have in[illegible] [illegible] while marriages [illegible] one-fifth. In Maine divorce [illegible] justice of the supreme court [illegible] of his discretion he [illegible] and proper, conducive of do[illegible] [illegible] consistent with the peace and [illegible]. When one marriage may be [illegible] another, entered into we shall [illegible] of the Mormon, with [illegible] that his polygamy is [illegible] consecutive. Apropos [illegible] the following is in the [illegible] regarding the Sprague marriage [illegible] yesterday that the ex governor [illegible] to pay alimony to his [illegible] to support the children, as he [illegible] to be, and at the same time [illegible]. He was not granted a di[illegible] [illegible] and according to general un[illegible] [illegible] law of divorce he had no right [illegible] recent decisions of the courts of [illegible] other States, the laws of which [illegible] of Rhode Island have given [illegible] marriages as that of Sprague.

[illegible] Bonds.

[illegible] 11.—Treasurer Speer of Georgia [illegible] Tweed, judge at Dixon, Illinois: "I have in my possession a [illegible] coupons, given under an act of [illegible] of Georgia, passed and approved [illegible] 1869 entitled 'an act to pro[illegible] defence of the state of Georgia [illegible] for the same.' The bond [illegible] 1st, 1866, No. 126. Will the [illegible] has the state for not [illegible] State Treasurer has replied [illegible] was issued in the time [illegible] people are now truly [illegible] of the United States for [illegible], I know that you as a [illegible] insist on payment [illegible]." Treasurer Speer says [illegible]. Every day almost I [illegible] questions about old debts [illegible] and other claims that [illegible] a great deal from Wisconsin. [illegible] was occupied [illegible] a Wisconsin regiment was [illegible]. In the hurried flight [illegible] papers were left behind, [illegible] was a lot of bonds [illegible] signed up and [illegible] had not been delivered, [illegible] from them, that they [illegible] the hands of that regiment [illegible] from all parts of the [illegible] of claimants—bankers [illegible].

[illegible] Good Schemer.

[illegible] 11.—The Mail and Express says [illegible] the failure of the Arizona [illegible] Company schemes in this city [illegible] could be procured from [illegible], W. J. Titus, a detective [illegible] to negotiate a loan, McCaf[illegible] [illegible] and Titus to exhibit speci[illegible] [illegible] was provided with [illegible]. Rumor [illegible] were entirely successful, and [illegible] a comparatively rich man [illegible] speculations in mining stocks said [illegible] "You can just bet McCafferty won't [illegible] business while he is piling up a [illegible] money. As a promoter, in this [illegible] his equal, except, perhaps, it [illegible] Fair."

[illegible] Davis' Wedding.

[illegible], N. C., March 11.—Judge David [illegible] Addie Burr will be married Tuesday [illegible] o'clock, and take the [illegible] o'clock boat for [illegible] only other way out of this town [illegible] train, which involves detention [illegible] whose accommodations are [illegible] will be performed by Rev. [illegible] of the Episcopal church, at the [illegible] W. Green, cousin and adopted [illegible], four miles from the city. Only [illegible] intimate connections of the bride [illegible] who will come with Davis will be [illegible] Davis and Judge Otto are expected [illegible] to-night, on a special train.

[illegible] to his True Love.

[illegible] March 11.—Senator Davis passed [illegible] to-day, en route for Fayetteville, [illegible] where he goes to be married. Davis [illegible] to everyone upon the [illegible], saying "Wait and see." He [illegible] greatly annoyed by the curi[illegible]. At each station loungers [illegible] and rushed through the car to get [illegible] the Judge, and even women walked through [illegible] glances at the big senator. [illegible] Fayetteville to-morrow morning.

[illegible] Mysterious Disappearance.

[illegible] March 11.—Three weeks ago W. J. Shoupe, [illegible] stock dealer and merchant of [illegible], left the territory to visit his wife [illegible], who are with friends in Dubuque. [illegible] he boarded a Pullman car on his [illegible] since then has been neither seen [illegible]. His brother of [illegible], was in [illegible] trying to find some trace of him on [illegible] is now examining all the hotel registers [illegible] to Utah, but as yet has found nothing [illegible] state was to have been by the [illegible] and Northwestern to Clinton, thence [illegible]. Friends and relatives are alarmed over his mysterious disappearance.

The Sprague Boom.

New York, March 11.—Times' Providence special: [illegible] old state democrats at first refused to [illegible] anything to do with the Sprague boom; they [illegible] to be wheeling into line, and the proba[illegible] is that Sprague will receive the nomination [illegible] not only from the convention called by the [illegible] independent republicans, but [illegible] from the democratic convention. [illegible] Butler and General Roger A. Pryor have [illegible] to stump the state for him when the [illegible] are made. Money [illegible] the campaign.

A Mayoralty Muddle.

[illegible], March 10.—In the [illegible] of [illegible] of this city the [illegible] a decision sustaining [illegible]. Mayor Creek was elected [illegible] under the general incorporation [illegible] April. Under the new charter [illegible] claimed the right [illegible] been elected and qualified [illegible] with the [illegible] suit.

The Mayor's Action Unlawful.

Chicago, March 10.—Judge [illegible] district court has rendered [illegible] the suit of the Mutual [illegible]. He emphasized his former [illegible] action, in cutting wires [illegible] but held that as the [illegible] terminate under the charter [illegible] order that the wires be repaired [illegible] from removing out the [illegible] the stringing of wires.

Down on Divorces.

New Haven, Mar. 1[illegible].—[illegible] Dyke [illegible] of the New England [illegible] this evening. Interesting statistics were given [illegible] in regard of divorces in the United States. In Connecticut in 1849 there were but 91 divorces. Now the average is 411 divorces each year. Over 600 women die in the United States each year from the attempt to destroy unborn children.

The Sick Dodge.

New York, March 10.—Eighty policemen sued for back pay for time lost by sickness [illegible] the police commissioners to-day. All sent [illegible] tion counsel. The sick roll has nearly doubled since Ryan's decision that the commissioners cannot stop the pay of policemen while sick. The commissioners ordered an inquiry into the rumor that the police surgeons and patrolmen were acting in collusion.

To Raise Wages.

Pittsburg, March 10.—A convention of iron and steel workers assembled here this afternoon. From a reliable source it was learned that the [illegible] at a convention on April 4th will propose a plan whereby wages will be increased about 1 per cent. If the proposition is carried and strikes ensue puddlers and muckrollers will withdraw from the association.

Missouri Politics.

St. Louis, March 11.—The Filley faction of the republican party through its regular central committee has decided not to take separate action in the coming spring election but will leave the field to the regular or silk-stocking wing of the party who have called primary meetings to elect delegates to a nominating convention. The action taken was the advice of Mr. Filley.

Resigned to Save Himself.

It is announced that the recent resignation of Chas. D. Allen, United States marshal for the western district of Missouri, was the result of charges of numerous irregular and illegal acts alleged to have been committed by him. It is said the government investigated the case and made an unfavorable report to the department.

Will Go to Law.

New York, March 11.—At a meeting of shoe manufacturers to-day it was determined to resist in the courts the royalty demand of Donald McKay & Co. for the use of their machines. A large amount of money was raised for the purpose. The company's patent expired July 6, 1879. Since that time over $1,000,000 has been paid them.

The Japanese Embassy.

New York, March 11.—The Japanese embassy to-day visited Central Park and Castle Garden. To-morrow they make a tour of New York's various penal institutions. Tuesday they leave for Boston and thence go to San Francisco, visiting the principal cities en route.

Not a Cheering Outlook.

New York, March 11.—Tribune Washington special: Lucius H. Foote, minister to Corea, sails from San Francisco via Yokohama April 25th. Foote has little hope that he will be received, and is ignorant what he will be called upon to do. His object will be to open the country to American commerce.

An Old Church.

The ninety third anniversary of the Forsyth Street M. E. church was celebrated to-day. Among those present were Mayor Edson, Rev. W. H. Garland of San Francisco, Rev. Louis Hawkins of Illinois, and J. E. Bryant of Atlanta. In this church the habit of inviting penitents to the altar originated.

The Passion Play at Louisville.

Louisville, March 11.—A wealthy citizen has selected a location on Third street, and made a contract with the author of the "Passion Play" to produce it here for three months in a mammoth summer pavilion.

Butler, Pa., March 11.—Colonel John M. Thompson, ex congressman, has been arrested on a charge of raising a note from $400 to $4000. Colonel Thompson gave bail.

Rough on Dorsey.

Little Rock, March 10.—A bill passed the senate to-day changing Dorsey county to De Soto county. It was named for ex-Senator Dorsey during the reconstruction era.

SPRAGUE'S BRIDE.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Cincinnati, March 11.—Ex-Governor Sprague's bride, Dora Inez West, was a bright, pretty girl, living with her father, mother, brother and three or four younger sisters in Guyandotte, West Virginia. The family came there from Connecticut, nearly fifteen years ago, and for a dozen years the father earned a living cobbling shoes. The brother was a [illegible] at Guyandotte. Later, however, he was under arrest at Columbus, Ohio, for robbing his roommate, but was acquitted. His sister Dora, older in years, was present at his trial. About two years ago the father, mother and Dora's sister removed to Ronceverte, West Virginia, west of the White Sulphur springs. Dora was the eldest child of the family, and was very well educated and accomplished in music. She was married seven years ago at Barboursville, West Virginia, to Mr. Calvert, a well known traveling salesman for a firm of wholesale grocers, of this city, her husband being of a well known family of Portsmouth, Ohio. Soon after their marriage the couple took rooms at the Biggs house, Portsmouth, which he afterwards relinquished on at the hotel as to his wife's conduct. They again made Guyandotte their home and their married life was not happy and several brief separations occurred. There was a great deal of gossip about the wife and it culminated in the couple separating permanently within a year and her repairing to her father's house. A divorce was granted Calvert last Monday by the circuit court of Cabell county, West Virginia, but beyond this fact nothing is known. There are numerous stories of Dora's escapades and flirtations. She was fond of display and of attracting attention, and these traits have led her into many follies. Those familiar with her ways think she must have met Sprague first at White Sulphur Springs and that the marriage must have been contracted while he was in an irresponsible condition. For some time past Dora has been on friendly terms with a well known timber merchant of this city, a married man, and she spent part of her time here and part of her time in Guyandotte.

Secured a Divorce.

Huntington, W. Va., March 11.—Mrs. Dora Inez Calvert, who married ex Governor Sprague, was last Monday divorced by the Cabell county circuit court from her husband, Frank Calvert.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

A Roundsman Murdered.

New York, March 11.—At half past [illegible] o'clock this morning Officer Patrick Casey of the [illegible] Point police killed Roundsman [illegible] Cominsky. The murdered roundsman was sitting at a desk in First precinct when Casey entered under the influence of liquor and acting strangely. When within two feet of the unsuspecting Cominsky he halted and said: "Why do you follow me so far?" Cominsky replied it was to make him do his duty. Without a word Casey drew a revolver and fired, the ball striking half an inch below Cominsky's eye. He fell back dead. The murderer was instantly secured and hurried to the [illegible]. Within 15 minutes a thousand people gathered under the impression that he was still in the station and [illegible] to get hold of him. It is supposed Casey was in a state of insanity.

THE PROPHET WIGGINS.

A General Storm Prevailing Throughout Canada and the New England Coast.

But it Proves a Rather Tame Affair as Compared with the Predicted Hurricane.

The Result of the Prophet's Prediction Simply a Scare to the Weak Minded.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Halifax, March 1[illegible].—Shortly after noon the breeze started up from the south and gradually grew in force. A few minutes after the storm signal was up at the citadel station and people began to prepare for the storm, steamers and sailing vessels in docks were secured to wharves with extra hawsers and merchandise in places of insecurity was removed to higher and safer quarters. No remarkable change occurred in the following two hours, but about 4 P. M. the wind quickened and a light rain and hail storm commenced to fall. The [illegible] overhead grew ominously dark. Half an hour later the wind increased in strength and rain and hail were falling pretty heavily. [illegible] this state of affairs continued, the breeze increasing to a gale and howling overhead. Fear began to become general among wharf owners and proprietors of property on the water line. Great excitement prevailed. At 7 o'clock the ferry steamers to the mouth the last one occupying four times the usual time and being made with great difficulty. From that hour until 9 o'clock the gale blew with terrible fury, causing vessels in docks to strain fastenings and almost tear from them. The tide rose during the blow higher than known since the Saxby gale. At 8 o'clock it was nearly on a level with the wharves, and at 9 when the highest sea washed over, considerable fear was felt for the safety of the steamer New Foundland, which was due between 8 and 9 o'clock when the storm was at the highest. At 8:30 the wind was blowing 3[illegible] miles an hour and apparently growing in velocity. About [illegible] it calmed suddenly and property owners and the people began to be more confident. No more heavy weather is expected to-night, but in the morning it is said by old fishermen and observers of weather that with the incoming tide the wind will rise again and blow with equal or greater violence.

CEASED THEIR TRIPS

Wiggins says he was Right.

New York, March 11.—The Times correspondent at Ottawa interviewed Wiggins, who declared that his predictions had been verified. He said: "My advice that ships of all nations should be in safe harbors by the 5th, I am happy to say, has been taken and acted upon and it was on the 5th that the arm of the great storm struck the Atlantic coast. The storm this afternoon came from the southeast, exactly as I said, both as to the period of arrival and its direction. The storm of the 7th and 8th exactly followed the course I marked out for the great storm, and Gen. Hazen in a criticism of my letters to the president stated that no storm ever took that course. This is for him a defeat."

Reporter—To-day it is also a defeat for the meteorologists, is it not?

Professor—Yes, decidedly. They everywhere in Washington, Toronto and England declare it impossible and even absurd that a

GREAT STORM COULD BE PREDICTED

More than 48 hours in advance. My storm will prove whether they were correct or not. I wish to make an explanation to the people of San Francisco. They expected a storm which I refused them five months ago. Sea captains and many others from that city and along the whole coast of California wrote me many months ago, asking if the storm and tidal wave would be there. I replied in the most distinct terms that they were in the safest part of the world, for the storm would originate west of them and come directly away from them, and would be prevented from reaching them from east of the Rocky mountains.

The professor incidentally expressed his pleasure at the courtesy of the president of the United States in replying to his letter. In conclusion he said he felt he had done his duty to both himself and the public.

The Weather at Various Places.

Wilkesbarre, March 11.—Heavy snow storm [illegible].

Long Branch, March 11.—[illegible] along the coast of New Jersey [illegible] storm.

Elmira, N. Y., March 10.—Been snowing since early this morning; high wind.

Worcester, Mass., March 10.—The 25th snow storm of the season began this forenoon, [illegible] rapidly. There is more snow than during any other storm this season.

Plymouth, March 1[illegible].—The storm began at noon and is now raging. A hard wind is blowing and increasing from the northeast. Very full sea.

Halifax, March 11.—The effects of last night's storm are not serious.

The Storm at Newport.

Boston, March 10.—Special from Newport: Tremendous sea. Tides are very high and now reach to the top of the wharf [illegible]. Many people are extremely nervous. The beach roars as it has not done for years.

The Kansas Wiggins.

Kansas City, March 11.—In a private letter received in this city Tice, the St. Louis weather prophet, ridicules Wiggins' claims as a forecaster of weather. Tice states that his own almanac predicts a severe storm between the 10th and 14th of March, but he apprehends no general disaster.

St. Louis Scared.

St. Louis, March 11.—Fear of Wiggins' storm has reached here. About fifteen fishermen operating on the Mississippi and Illinois rivers between St. Louis and Peoria are said to have taken their nets out until Wednesday. Fish are scarce in consequence. Weather cloudy, with rather high and gusty winds.

Schooner Wrecked.

Portland, Me., March 11.—The schooner J. W. Sawyer, 116 tons, of Portland, is a total wreck near the southwest harbor of Mount Desert. Three seamen are lost—Daniel Snow, Frederick Smith and James Smith, all of Portland.

Very High Tide.

New York, March 11.—In Jamaica, Hempstead and Great South bay, the tide was higher at noon to-day than for many years. The lowlands were covered with water. At Flushing the water was three feet deep in the streets.

Clear at Boston.

Boston, March 11.—A somewhat unusually high tide at noon to-day and alarming predictions as to the next high water led to preparations for a freshet along the river front to-night, which an investigation at 12:45 failed to verify, the rise being really less than at noon. Sky now clear.

Only a Slight Breeze.

Halifax, March 11.—A slight breeze is blowing from the southeast, which appears at this time to increase somewhat in strength, and then subside. High tide has gone completely down and vessels ride easily at their docks.

Storm Subsided.

St. John, N. B., March 11.—The storm which prevailed last night subsided at 3 this morning. The storm would attract no attention but for Wiggins' predictions.

Schooner Safe.

Halifax, March 11.—The fishing schooner Agnes, thought to have been foundered in last Tuesday night's storm, arrived at Ferring cove to-night.

From Rain to Snow.

Watertown, N. Y., March 11.—The rain of Saturday throughout northern New York changed to snow to-night with a heavy [illegible] wind. Three to six inches have fallen. Trains are running on the roads to-day.

Whitehall, March 11.—Twelve inches of snow fell yesterday afternoon and evening. The storm extended the whole length of Lake Champlain.

Snow Storm and Earthquake.

Waterloo, Que., March 11.—The severest storm known for years is in progress. Snow began falling yesterday afternoon and continued throughout the night, the wind blowing a gale all day. The snow is piled almost mountain high, making traffic of all kinds absolutely impossible. Between 10 and 11 o'clock this morning two distinct shocks of earthquake were felt, the wave passing from east to west.

London, March 11.—The Observer states that Judah P. Benjamin, health permitting, will probably accept a judgeship.

FRANCE.

Riots Anticipated.

Paris, March 11.—Socialists intend holding a meeting to-day at the place de l'Hotel de Ville. Riots are expected. Several hundred persons arrested on the Esplanade des Invalides displayed revolvers.

Adopting the American Style.

In the chamber of deputies yesterday the minister of the interior, replying to Cassagnac, said the republicans condemned and the monarchists encouraged disorderly meetings. The government would enforce order with all the means at its disposal.

De Cassagnac protested against the charges made against the monarchists. He asserted that the republicans were responsible for the riots which were only beginning and said the people starved when Ferry was in power.

The minister of the interior rejoined that Cassagnac's speech showed who were pleased at the riots.

Count de Maille, legitimist, said: "You are a calumniator."

The minister added that different measures would be taken to disperse future meetings.

Paris in Agitation.

Paris, March 11.—A meeting of 2000 persons was held to-day to protest against the action of the chamber of deputies in adopting a motion declaring the chamber as having confidence in the government and having rejected a proposal to consider the matter of a revision of the constitution. Prime Minister Ferry having declared the subject would be made a cabinet question, the meeting adopted a motion favoring a revision. Several deputies belonging to the extreme left were present.

Speedy Justice.

Paris, March 11.—Nineteen persons arrested yesterday were sentenced to various terms, maximum getting six months. The government will positively prevent the proposed meeting of socialists to-day. No one will be allowed to approach the Hotel de Ville. Liberte [illegible] said these meetings are merely preparatory for a grand display on the 18th instant.

More Arrests.

Paris, March 1[illegible].—The police dispersed several groups of socialists in the Place de Hotel de Ville. They made no resistance. Fifteen hundred persons afterwards reassembled, but the police and municipals again dispersed them and arrested five persons. The crowd is now marching to the Place du Trone, which is guarded.

Louise Michel to be Arrested.

Paris, March 11.—It is said that a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Louise Michel, charging her with inciting to overthrow the established government. These charges render her liable to a penalty of from seven to twenty years imprisonment at hard labor.

Louise Michel Hiding.

Paris, March 1[illegible].—To-day's arrests number 1[illegible]. It was determined to-day to invite all the socialists to a great meeting in the Champ de Mars on the 18th inst. Violence towards the police and troops was urged. Louise Michel is in hiding to avoid arrest.

Rome, March 1[illegible].—Two ladies, descendants of Amerigo Vespuccius, who gave the name of America to the western hemisphere, are now asking that the pension of ten crowns per month, which was assigned to the family by the republic of Florence in 1690, be restored.

GREECE.

Adjourned out of Respect.

Athens, March 11.—The chamber of deputies has adjourned until the 14th inst. out of respect to the memory of the late M. Coumoundouros, ex prime minister. A public funeral is proposed.

THE MISSISSIPPI FLOOD.

The River Falls.

Helena, March 11.—The river has declined half an inch and will continue falling slowly for several days, when more rapid decline is expected. The most terrific accounts, the roar from which can be heard during the still hours of night, are leaking through the country below, carrying destruction with them. In the [illegible] lake region the water is the highest ever known, losses being greater than ever before. Dead animals and cabins are floating in great numbers.

Four Children Drowned.

Helena, Ark., March 11.—Loss of life by the flood occurred by the washing of a house 12 miles south of here, in which were six adults and four children. The latter were drowned and the former rescued by a party of hunters who took them off the roof after they had clung to it three days. The St. Francis contains hundreds of horses, mules and cattle standing up to their throats in water, their owners being unable to rescue them. Many carcasses are floating about.

Rushing through the Gaps.

Louisville, March 11.—Mayor Jacob left by steamer to visit towns on the lower Ohio and distribute money contributed by persons for the relief of those places.

Sick and Destitute.

Indianapolis, March 11.—Great suffering and sickness prevail at nearly all the river towns [illegible]. At New Franklin, a village of 1[illegible]0 inhabitants, [illegible] are destitute, and [illegible] deaths from pneumonia have occurred. The people are destitute, depending on the public for provisions and medicine. One hundred and twenty five are sick, and 4 have died from dysentery, which has almost reached an epidemic. About 1[illegible] houses have been swept away or damaged. At least 700 persons are liable to disease at Caseyville. [illegible] and no relief has been furnished. There are [illegible] cases [illegible] there, mostly of typhoid fever [illegible] death. One hundred houses have been under water and half of them are ruined. At Rose Claire [illegible] a family of 10 persons are all sick.

Captain Korts, of the Wrecked Tacoma, Convicted by the Inspectors

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

San Francisco, March 1[illegible].—The official report of the loss of the collier Tacoma was rendered this afternoon. After reviewing at length the testimony adduced during the investigation it goes on to state that the evidence in relation to the courses steered after leaving Cape Flattery is very conflicting and the inspectors are obliged to rely entirely upon that of the first officers. The courses given by Korts are highly improbable under the circumstances as he states that the ship on passing Flattery rocks steered southwest, then south by east, and he could not remember changing the course at noon to south one by east. It was admitted by [illegible] that he was on deck most of the time taking courses which the watch officers declare was steered in a draught of fifteen miles in twelve hours which the captain admits prevails from Cape Flattery to sixty miles south of the Columbia river and the heave of the sea towards land would place the ship very near to the point where she struck, allowing for the deviation of the compass which was also known by him. He states in his evidence that on a run of fourteen miles to Cape Flattery rock, he found the Tacoma was three miles nearer shore than she should have been on the course steered and this should have warned him to give her a course more seaward. The inspectors find that land was plainly visible on the afternoon of the 25th at an estimated distance of from ten to fifteen miles and conclude that if Captain Korts had consulted the charts at the time he would have discovered that the

VESSEL WAS OUT OF HER COURSE

And nearer land than she should have been. Moreover he had the surface of the ocean lying outside him to navigate and there was no occasion for and no advantage gained by being within forty miles of the coast, as the course from Cape Flattery to San Francisco is direct for forty six or forty seven miles and would take him twenty-five or thirty miles clear of Cape Mendocino before there was any necessity of changing. Relative to his leaving the ship the inspectors say they consider he acted very [illegible] and unseamanlike. It was a grave error on his part as master, and he should not have been influenced by anybody. His plea that he had no officer who could be trusted to go ashore is a frail one, as he had officers of great experience and worthy of confidence. They believe that after he landed he did everything possible to save the lives of those on the wreck, and took every means to secure assistance. The report closes by saying that the inspectors can arrive at no other conclusion than that Captain Korts navigated the Tacoma after passing Cape Flattery with gross negligence and that he did not maintain that degree of discipline necessary on board of steam vessels. There being no fault found with any of his officers nor any blame attached to them, the inspectors hold the captain responsible on account of this gross negligence and blunder, thereby causing the loss of the steamer on the night of January 25th, and order the suspension of his license as master and pilot of steam vessels for two years.

John Muir Interviewed.

San Francisco, March 10.—John Muir, superintendent of traffic of the Northern Pacific, arrived from the east this morning. He stated in conversation with your correspondent that he expected to return to St. Paul the latter part of August to enter upon his duties in connection with his recent promotion. Referring to the agreement between the Union Pacific and Northern Pacific roads, he said that matters relating thereto were satisfactorily arranged, and that Villard's road would complete the distance from Portland to the point of junction, [illegible] miles less, so that with the extension of the Union Pacific the distance from

PORTLAND TO CHICAGO

Will be about 1[illegible]00 miles, while the distance between those points via the Northern Pacific will be 240 miles [illegible]. Track will also be laid by the Union Pacific to Helena, Montana, and thence to the mouth of the Little Blackfoot. Reaching Butte City, it will run to Helena through Little Blackfoot, the Northern Pacific running through the latter place to Butte City, running from St. Paul and the Missouri river [illegible]. They would, however, be considerably reduced from former rates on account of the much shorter line of the Northern Pacific. Mr. Muir leaves for Portland on the steamer sailing Wednesday. He will be succeeded by A. L. Stokes of Chicago, who takes his departure for Portland about the 1st of June.

Oakland Shippers Agitated.

San Francisco, March 11.—Eugene L. Sullivan, collector of customs, has received a letter from Acting Secretary of the Treasury French calling his attention to the fact that the unloading of vessels at places in this district not designated as ports is contrary to law. Much feeling is manifested in the matter by shippers, and especially residents of Oakland, as an order was issued by the collector notifying his deputies of the essential features of the letter, practically crippling the commerce of Oakland until an act of congress can be secured making Oakland a port of delivery. The decision revives an old question as to the right of constituencies at this port.

The Canadian Pacific.

San Francisco, March 11.—In an interview with Mr. [illegible], the gentleman who has been actively connected with the Canadian Pacific railroad, says he feels assured that by the close of this year there will be a continuous road completed, and in running order from Lake Superior to the eastern base of the Rocky mountains and that by next fall there will be a continuous line from Montreal to Thunder bay. The road is already completed from Montreal to Winnipeg, a distance of almost 1800 miles. The other 600 miles east of Winnipeg to Lake Superior will be completed this year, and by that time he thinks the Rockies will be reached.

A Hackman Held Up.

San Francisco, March 11.—A man named Caro, driver of a coupe, after leaving a load of passengers on Van Ness avenue to-night, started to come back to the stand when he was hailed by a man on the sidewalk. Driving up to where the stranger was standing he jumped off the box and was asked if he had a watch. Receiving a negative reply he placed a pistol at the driver's head, ordering him to throw up his hands, and with the assistance of two confederates robbed him of a gold watch and chain and $[illegible].

Faro Game Raided.

Stage Robbery.

Tuscarora, March 11.—The stage which arrived here last night was stopped by masked men a short distance from town, who robbed the Wells Fargo treasure box. There were a number of passengers aboard, but none were disturbed except A. J. Potter, the driver. He was stood up and relieved of his valuables. After getting the box they cut the traces of the two leaders and compelled the stage to drive in with the two wheelers, which made locomotion very slow, and [illegible] was doubtless done with that object in view so as to allow them time to get away from the scene of the robbery. It is believed the robbers got [illegible] for their trouble. They were evidently figuring on capturing the money used in paying off miners, which usually arrives here on the 10th of each month. The Irish Party Badly Demoralized—Press Comments on Many Topics, Etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, March 11.—Dublin cables say the following: The business of the House of Commons is in a greater muddle than ever. The general impatience of members, as well as of the public, would be shown much more decidedly than it is but for the fact which is privately known that the government is ready on the track of all the chief conspirators in Ireland. Gladstone, who did not throw away his time without cause, is [illegible] now that the entire "readiness" in acting against the government in Ireland connected with the Phoenix Park murders will be brought to justice. The flight of Egan shows that the game is up. But in spite of all reports to the contrary the real chief has not been found to [illegible] Number 1. With that exception every person who has ever taken any prominent part in the plots for committing assassinations in Ireland is now known to the police and will be brought to justice. I have good authority for saying that some startling revelations in this matter may soon be expected. The knowledge of all these facts is keeping the Irish party in the house of commons just now very quiet and subdued. Biggar especially is completely done for. His little private obstructions in the shape of natural children have made an end of him. In truth the whole Irish party seems demoralized, and the flight of much more important persons than Egan is daily expected.

THE LAND LEAGUE'S DANGEROUS POSITION

Dublin authorities are not a little chagrined by the flight of Egan, evidence of whose direct complicity in numerous crimes is rapidly accumulating. The Times, in an article obviously based on official information, says investigations now in progress will implicate the land league in the immediate patronage of crime, and perhaps establish direct connection between it and the Invincibles. Egan's flight is believed to have been due to a dread of this last danger. Sundry prominent land leaguers are expected to follow him. The Times plainly points to Parnell and other members of parliament as probably included in the presumption of guilt afforded by Egan's flight, a presumption involving the whole organization of the land league, and every one of its authorities. Nevertheless the Parnellite attacks upon the government continue in the house of commons and elsewhere. O'Brien on Thursday declared that Trevelyan's secretary was deserving of execration in Ireland. Trevelyan replied that O'Brien's newspaper had persistently attacked with singular ferocity Forster, [illegible] Justice Lawson and Judge Field, and asked the house to remember that connecting link between these four. It was the same paper which now assailed him.

JUDGE NORTH CONDEMNED

Judge North is condemned for the severity of his sentences upon the editor, publisher and printer of the Free Thinker. The trial was attended by a large number of persons and the passing of the sentence was an occasion of such a scene of disorder as has not been witnessed in an English court for many years. The theological animus of the judge's remark is almost universally disapproved and one result of it is apparent in the announcement of the secretary of the society for the suppression of blasphemous literature that it intends to indict Huxley, Tindall, Herbert Spencer, John Morley and Rev. Dr. Martineau for blasphemy.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES' INFLUENCE

The passage of the bill prohibiting trap pigeon shooting furnishes a singular example of the influence of the princess of Wales. Her expressions of her hostility to the cruel practice and her determination to be present at no more matches undoubtedly occasioned the abandonment of all previous opposition to the measure in the house of commons, and it is believed insures its passage by the lords. The queen has also declared herself delighted with the eagerness of the majority.

BIGGAR'S BREACH OF PROMISE CASE

The Biggar breach of promise case is in all the papers and is the absorbing topic of conversation. Miss Hilland is thought to have deserved her 20,000 and have the total amount assessed to Biggar. He stated in cross examination that he was a pork butcher, worth over 50,000, and that among the obstacles that prevented him from marrying Miss Hilland was the fact that he had already two children to take care of and the mother of them to support. He was unmercifully but good humoredly chaffed in the commons Thursday afternoon, but did not seem to mind it.

THE CHANNEL TUNNEL

The channel tunnel is being vigorously agitated with a view of securing a gift in its favor of one mile and a quarter of the bore on the French side. French engineers have shown by experiments that they can proceed to Dover at the rate of 13 feet daily. This would complete a gallery 14 feet wide the whole way across in not over 14 months. French enthusiasts on the subject take no account of English opposition to the tunnel in London.

WELL RECEIVED

Mr. Browning's Jocoseria appeared yesterday and deservedly sustains, says the Times, the reputation of the variously gifted poet. His work is still distinguished by all of his old freshness, originality and intellectual vigor. In dramatic passion Browning ranks among those numerous English authors whose books are freely berated in America.

RECOVERY OF MRS. LOWELL

Mrs. Lowell had sufficiently recovered from her late illness contracted at Madrid to be presented at the drawing room on Tuesday. The Queen, who had offered to receive her privately if she were unable to otherwise attend, greeted her cordially, and afterward sent word to Lowell to express to him her pleasure at seeing his wife at court.

HIS OWN FAULT

The verdict against Biggar for breach of promise is understood to be due largely to his own demeanor in the witness box. Against the advice of his counsel he insisted on giving his own testimony and disgusted both judge and jury by his flippant brutality.

THE NEW TARIFF

Much interest is felt here in the new tariff bill. The Spectator feels certain to-day that free trade must triumph in the United States, and [illegible] of to-day regards the passage, by a [illegible] congress, of a bill admitting the necessity of tariff reform, as the first step toward a policy of real fiscal reform in the United States.

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 12, 1883.

THE LICENSE ORDINANCE.

On Wednesday night last the common council of this city, at its regular meeting, passed an ordinance to increase the license for retailing spirituous liquors from $200 to $800 a year. This action was suddenly taken, no previous notice having been given that such a measure would be proposed. What seems to have moved the common council to it at this particular time was the fact that certain low places in the city, to which licenses had been for a long time refused, had recently obtained them; and therefore the immediate object was to put licenses beyond the reach of places of this most objectionable class. To places selling beer only the license was not increased. Also the requirement that a bond should be given with each license was repealed. This was a very serious error. If the object of the ordinance was to shut up the lowest places and to keep the traffic out of the hands of vicious and irresponsible persons, it is in a great degree nullified by setting aside the regulation which requires a bond.

Though THE OREGONIAN was surprised, as others were, when the passage of the ordinance was announced, it said at once that high license had produced good results in other places, and since our common council had enacted an ordinance requiring it, it ought to have a thorough trial here. Moreover this journal has for twenty years past, in discussing the questions which pertain to the liquor traffic, urged the policy of placing licenses sufficiently high to keep irresponsible persons out of the business, and to insure orderly regulation. This is the middle ground between extremes. It is the only adjustment possible between the demand for prohibition on one side, which can not possibly be enforced, and the liberty of unlicensed drink-selling on the other. If a reasonably restrictive and therefore fairly satisfactory license law cannot be had, then the demand for a trial of extreme measures of prohibition will be rightfully increased. For this traffic is unlike any other. The public safety requires that it be kept under as stringent regulations as public sentiment will support and enforce, and in all parts of the country there is a growing demand that it be dealt with as a thing which, because of the dangers to social order and public peace that attend it, shall be kept under careful regulations and made, by taxation, to contribute to the support of communities upon which it throws so many burdens.

These are the views of a great majority of good citizens. We do not say that the ordinance passed by the common council of Portland and approved by the mayor places the license at the proper sum. That is a matter of opinion, and while some will say it is too high, others say it is not high enough. But this remark may be made with great propriety, viz.: There is a public sentiment outside of the liquor trade that must be consulted in this matter. The lower class of liquor sellers would, of course, prefer no regulation, no restriction, no taxation. But the community has rights that must be considered. The dangers of the traffic and the heavy burdens it entails upon local government give the community an undoubted right to prescribe and enforce measures of regulation. If it finds that the taxation, or license is not sufficiently high to secure the needful restriction and to bring in money to meet to a proper extent the losses caused by the disorders it undeniably produces, then each community may justly and properly consider what measure of taxation it will adopt, and what other regulations, as to bonds, hours of closing, etc., it will require. And here it may be remarked that the common council of this city has the same authority and power to make the license $800 that it has to make it $200; and it has equal authority to make it $2,000, if it should think fit to exercise it.

On Saturday quite a number of the liquor dealers in the city, including the keepers of many "hard places," met to denounce the ordinance. What took place in the meeting is not very well known, since reporters were excluded; but from statements which have dribbled out it would appear that the meeting forgot the ordinance; forgot the fact that it was passed by the common council without the suggestion or knowledge of THE OREGONIAN; forgot that it was signed by the mayor without suggestion or approval from it; and, under the impression that this journal is the legislative power of the city, proceeded to denounce it for the enactment of the law. Further, quite a number of them insisted on a resolution to stop taking THE OREGONIAN, under penalty of $5 to be paid by each person breaking it; though some demurred, since they want and will have the paper that contains the news. Of course the more respectable class who engage in the trade had nothing to do with this ebullition of foolish and impotent wrath. Those who did participate greatly misunderstand the spirit of THE OREGONIAN if they suppose it can thus be intimidated. While the new ordinance does not meet the full approval of this journal because of features in it which will plainly render it ineffective, it says again what it said when it was surprised on learning that the measure had become a law, namely, that it ought to be given a fair and thorough trial. If it should shut up a good many of the places where liquors are sold, the city could well spare them; drinking and drunkenness would be diminished, crime would decrease, the expenses of our courts of justice would not absorb two-thirds of the taxes paid by the people, fewer children would be in want, and the city would be more orderly and safe.

It ought to be understood, and the fact will make itself understood, that the class which must be regulated and restrained in the interest of peace and good order will not be permitted to regulate and control the city. In particular, about the liquor traffic, whose dangerous features every community is forced to recognize, guards must be erected and maintained. This special measure, however, we cannot specially commend, since, as it seems to us, it gives up more than it is likely to secure. For repeal of the regulation which requires a bond to be given there is no compensation in the increase of the license. Many who ought never to be allowed to sell liquors can find a way to pay the license who they could never give the bond.

There is no reason to fear that the new ordinance fixes license at a rate which may defeat the objects sought. Those objects are, first, the obtainment of revenue, and second, the suppression of places of low sort where liquors are sold, of which this city has not a few. If license be fixed too high, it will be evaded, because it will then be prohibitory in its nature; and in a community like this prohibition cannot possibly be enforced. But if it be fixed at a rate which will at once secure the best regulation and the most revenue, the practical mean is reached. It may be doubted whether $800 a year is that sum. In the opinion of THE OREGONIAN $400, or at most $500, would be more nearly a practicable figure for this city. In any event a bond ought to be required. There is better regulation in a $200 license with a bond than in a much higher license without it.

The London Times remarks that for a sum which, within human memory, was charged for an inside seat by the mail from Manchester to London, a man may cross the Atlantic in a safe, easy and well-appointed vessel, and find himself in a new world, surrounded by eager competitors for his valuable services.

A certain class of liquor sellers, ignoring the mayor and common council, seem to suppose that THE OREGONIAN enacted the new license ordinance. If this were true it would be a high compliment to the power of this journal in the community.

WEALTH AND POLITICS.

Amused and ashamed the people of the whole country have looked upon the spectacle at Washington, afforded by Senator Tabor of Colorado during his brief term of twenty-eight days. The methods of his election provoked deep disgust, and the character of the man profound contempt. This case and the many in times afforded by the session just ended, where men sent to Washington as representatives of states or people have become little else than attorneys for personal or corporate interests, have occasioned much talk of late about the advent of the rich man in American politics, and much gloomy forecasting of consequences. It seems worth while to consider exactly what the danger is and how it may be met. In the first place, the fact that a senator or member of congress is rich is no disadvantage to the state. No doubt it would not be well to have a legislative body made up exclusively from the rich, but it ought not to be made up exclusively of the poor. If a man has inherited wealth, he is pretty sure to have been liberally educated, and to have had plenty of time to give to the consideration of public affairs. If he has gained wealth by toil and enterprise, he must be a man of more than common knowledge of some branch of political economy. And in either case he will have qualities useful to the body of which he is a member. But there is another way in which a man may become rich; namely, by speculation. We do not pretend to deny that a successful speculator, like a successful poker player, must have qualities which he does not share with common men, but, unfortunately, they are not likely to greatly benefit the state. And, what is worse, money easily come by is easily spent, and its owner too often is not more scrupulous how it shall spend his money than he was how he got it. Men of this class often buy themselves seats in congress, either to assist future speculation or to throw a cloak of respectability over what is past.

But to class as tricky speculators all the men who have bought their way into office would be to assail without discrimination. Ambition comes to rich men just as it comes to the poor; often respectable, sometimes noble at first, but too often stooping to baser and baser means, until the means have corrupted the end and made it as corrupt as themselves. Rich men and poor men alike lose their straightforwardness, then their honor and last their honesty in the pursuit of office; but the rich are tempted to use their riches, a temptation which cannot come to the poor. Here lies the real evil. It is not rich men who endanger the state, but men who trust in riches. These last attach themselves to one political party or the other, and are welcomed simply for their money. It is notorious that one party has chosen its candidate for vice president on account of his wealth; that the state of Nevada is a rotten borough, returning to the senate both democrats and republicans, but always men who can pay for their seats. And in other states money has been spent as only rich men can spend it. But not all the bribery is done by the rich. There is a campaign fund upon which poor men may draw; but, obviously, it is easier for the party managers to pay for the campaign out of the pocket of a single than to rake together the small offerings of the faithful. There can be no doubt that, with the increase of wealth, these practices have increased, and that it is more common now than ever before to see a man hold public office simply because he is rich. No reason can possibly be worse. In an aristocracy of birth, with much that is foolish, there is something that is noble; in a plutocracy, nothing that is not base.

We should see that money shall not purchase office. Contested elections should be tried before an impartial—that is, a non-partisan—tribunal and every candidate ought to be required to make a sworn statement of his electioneering expenses. But this will not cure the abuse, as the example of England shows, where bribery is terribly common and in spite of stringent laws. There is nothing for it but to educate public feeling up to the point at which bribery does not pay—the point where honorable men will not vote for a candidate who is reasonably suspected of using his money to obtain votes.

SAN FRANCISCO'S NORTHERN TRADE.

San Francisco is awakening to the fact that the "northern trade" is likely to slip from her grasp upon completion of the northern railroad system. The Journal of Commerce of that city notes that imports of manufactured goods into Oregon and Washington during the last year amounted to $23,290,550, and remarks that the figures themselves show the significance of this trade to San Francisco and the necessity of employing every possible means to hold it.

But, in fact, it cannot be held by San Francisco, except in so far as that city may be able to compete with the east in manufacturing goods for this trade. This she is not yet prepared to do to any considerable extent. San Francisco is herself a constant and heavy buyer in eastern markets of goods which she ought to manufacture at home. But there are drawbacks on this coast which it will take a long time yet to overcome. Capital is not abundant and still wants larger profits than in the eastern states, and skilled labor is in short supply.

Our trade is now largely with eastern cities, though carried on through San Francisco. When our direct lines of railway shall have been completed, it will take the direct route, and, the connection through San Francisco being discontinued, that city will lose much of the northern trade which force of circumstances has hitherto given it.

A sound mind in a sound body is excellent capital for a young man to start life upon, yet how few possess these qualities in anything like equal balance. More or less attention is paid to physical culture in all American colleges, but while the stronger and more robust students are disposed to go to extremes in the more violent forms of athletic sports, the weak and sickly, who most need exercise, cannot be induced to take it even in the more moderate forms. President Eliot of Harvard college says, in his last report, that of the 81 men engaged in boating, baseball and football from 1873 to 1881 more than a quarter stood above the middle of their classes, and the average standing of the whole number was represented by 72 in a supposed class of 100. These are a very small proportion of the whole body of students, and what to do with the weaker bodied students is a puzzling question. Dr. Sargent, director of the Harvard gymnasium, and good authority on physical culture, says the proper bodily training of our youth can never be accomplished until [illegible] gymnasiums are put in good hygienic condition and furnished with appropriate apparatus, and most important of all until gymnasium exercises are made a part of the regular curriculum.

The weight of silver dollars now lying idle in the treasury vaults is more than thirteen hundred tons. Some of this amount has been where it now is for five years. Reflection on these remarkable facts naturally suggests an inquiry [illegible] for the continued prosperity of the country to continue this coining process. Why not [illegible] these thirteen hundred tons of silver? The heavy expense caused by the continued purchase of silver, and the necessity for more storage room could be easily avoided, and yet the process of turning out these silver dollars that is alleged to be so mysteriously and inexplicably essential to the stability of business could be maintained without interruption. Why would not this be a good scheme?

A curious libel suit has begun in Philadelphia. In 1876 Herman Marsdorf wrote and Barclay & Co. published a tragedy in blank verse on the Mollie Maguire reign. The cover of the play was decorated with a full-length likeness of the author. To his astonishment he recently discovered that the same cut had been used in a life of Jesse James, where it did duty as the father of the outlaw, and in one other book it is called a picture of Jesse James himself. Consequently he has sued [illegible] for damages.

The paper which was founded here to do the work of [illegible] by natural process becomes the organ of the liquid lunatics, of the wives, and of the lowest class of drinking holes. Natural selection had probably been observed before Darwin. But no one had given it a name. "Birds of a feather," however, did very well.

Wiggins is a flat failure. A little storm at Halifax was telegraphed as if it were his, but it is now doubtful whether even this common wind was raised by Wiggins. The modern Eolus is a pretender.

The conspiracy of the liquor sellers [illegible] to bulldoze THE OREGONIAN having failed, perhaps the next best thing would be to mob the common council and burn the mayor in effigy.

"Gath" says that President Arthur is timid, moody and oppressed by the successive shocks of conflict over almost every office. He dislikes to say no, and therein resembles Garfield.

The city of Chicago, by a recent ordinance, has raised licenses to sell liquor to $500. Already it finds the measure to be in the interest both of order and of revenue.

CANADA.

To Prevent Chinese Immigration.

OTTAWA, March 11.—Shakespeare lately introduced this session a bill with a view to restricting Chinese immigration to the British dominions. It will be similar in principle to the one passed in New South Wales in [illegible] and now in force. It provides that every Chinaman entering the country shall pay $50, and no vessel is allowed to bring a greater number of Chinese than in the proportion of one to every 100 in the tonnage of such vessel.

CITY.

LARGE ROBBERY.—Several days ago, Henry Struck, a farmer living near Milwaukie, on the bank of the Willamette, had $1,000 stolen from his house under circumstances which pointed to one Ah hing, a Chinese woodchopper, as the guilty party. Struck came to this city with a little boy, who could identify the Chinaman, and swore out a warrant for the latter's arrest. Since that time it has been a game of hide and seek between the Chinaman and the boy. The little fellow is a sharp one, but until yesterday every time he would see the Chinaman the latter would see him, and have ample time to make his escape before a policeman could be notified. Yesterday, however, the boy stuck to his game, and, in spite of the Chinaman's threats, followed him everywhere until Policeman Branch was encountered by the boy's father and made the arrest. The Chinaman did not remain in jail, for no sooner was his arrest known than one of his countrymen came down and deposited $1200 in gold coin, the amount stolen, as bail for his appearance in the police court to-day. The heathen has secured [illegible] as his attorney and it is understood that he will fight the case.

TO WIDEN A THOROUGHFARE.—At the next meeting of the council a petition will be presented asking that North Seventh street from Pine to North Front, a distance of 13 blocks, be widened to 80 feet, an increase of 20 feet over present width. A glance at the city map will show that Pine and North Seventh streets is the shortest route to the proposed union depot from the business section of the city lying south of A street, and the property owners on North Seventh recognize the necessity of a thoroughfare wide enough to accommodate the traffic which must follow the depot. Owners of nine-tenths of the property on both sides of the street favor the proposed improvement and it is believed there will not be the least opposition to it.

PULLED INTO THE RIVER.—An inebriated individual who obstinately refused to give his name, fell into the river from one of the docks [illegible] yesterday afternoon, and being unable to help himself, would certainly have drowned had not assistance been close at hand. The accident was noticed by a young man who was taking a pleasure pull in a small skiff and who went at once to the aid of the drowning man. Some hard lifting got the unfortunate in the boat, and his rescuer landed him at [illegible] considerably frightened but not [illegible], for in getting out of the boat he [illegible] a lurch backwards and but for a bystander, who caught him by the collar he would have [illegible] involuntary bath.

RETURNED FROM THE FRONT.—Supervising Engineer Thielsen and Superintendent Hallett arrived [illegible] from the Northern Pacific front by special [illegible] yesterday afternoon. The east bound freight [illegible] for six hours, one of the cars having [illegible]. The run from Bonneville to Albina [illegible] in one hour and forty minutes. Mr. [illegible] will return to the front Wednesday morning [illegible] his family, who have been sick at Forest [illegible]. He expects to wind up work of his division [illegible], when his entire force of 1000 white [illegible] Chinese will return to Portland. It is [illegible] to say that he will be glad to get [illegible] again.

[illegible]—From Hon. D. P. Thompson, who has just returned from his trip to Baker City, it is learned that the perforation of the tunnel at [illegible] of the Blue mountains was finished last [illegible] all parts of the road is satisfactory [illegible] the severe weather. On account of [illegible] transporting the books the new [illegible] Baker City has not opened for business [illegible]. They will be in temporary [illegible] until their new brick building is finished. [illegible] that the town shows great life [illegible] new school census is expected [illegible]

[illegible]—The first baseball of the [illegible] at East Portland yesterday between [illegible] captained by Campbell [illegible] good game was the result, the [illegible] in favor of the former. Up to [illegible] the score was 10 to 5. Two [illegible] participated and materially [illegible]. The baseball season [illegible] lively this year. There will [illegible] good Portland club in the [illegible]

[illegible]—A small party of buildozers, representing "bad places" in the city where [illegible] came to THE OREGONIAN office Saturday [illegible] a body, to stop the papers publishing [illegible] THE OREGONIAN had been [illegible] to such a picture of the party, [illegible] this morning. It would [illegible] and, moreover, it would [illegible] powerful argument for proper [illegible] liquor traffic ever presented in [illegible]

[illegible], BUSY DAY.—The police yesterday [illegible]. Two white men and a [illegible] two sailors for fighting, and [illegible] for being found on the streets [illegible] drunkenness. Among [illegible] a few familiar names, and all [illegible] police court to-day, adding fair [illegible] for the judge, for a few minor [illegible] sentences.

[illegible]—Frank Hill and Robert McTier, [illegible] on the Queen of the Pacific, [illegible] by Policeman Belcher and [illegible] of a watch from the pocket of [illegible] while he was asleep. ESCAPING PRISONER SHOT.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

[illegible], March 10.—Charles Anderson, a prisoner confined in the county jail here on a charge of [illegible], escaped this afternoon. He was pursued by Sheriff Gordon, who, after chasing him for [illegible] of a mile, shot him. The bullet struck him in the region of the kidneys. The wound will probably prove fatal.

MYSTERY SOLVED.

Yesterday [illegible] steamer [illegible] at the foot of Morrison street, [illegible] a package [illegible] projecting [illegible] the package [illegible] was about thirty feet from the dock. [illegible] but to his astonishment [illegible] the body [illegible] surprise, he made [illegible] notified the coroner, who [illegible] had it removed to the morgue.

The body was thickly coated with mud and evidently had been in the river since the last high water, when it would [illegible] of a boat. [illegible] it was in the bottom of the river it would probably never have risen to the surface with [illegible] [illegible] upon the dead man revealed [illegible] a letter [illegible] from John Dudley, of the waterworks [illegible] Sprague, of the Northern Pacific railroad, stating that the bearer, William Sullivan, was a good, trustworthy man, and [illegible] work. Mr. Dudley [illegible] a letter in his own handwriting, [illegible] He was [illegible] for some time in the employ of the O. R. & N. Co., and was a citizen of Portland.

Sullivan is undoubtedly the man who, at one o'clock on the morning of February [illegible], was heard to fall into the river from the upper wharf at the foot of Yamhill street. [illegible] as there was a bright [illegible] steamer [illegible] Hill and Policeman Branch, who heard the drowning man's cries, made every effort to save him, but without success. The body was found yesterday. The idea of suicide, which was advanced at the time the death was first reported, is not [illegible] by all who knew the deceased.

A coroner's inquest was held in the afternoon, at which the facts given above were elicited by the testimony of witnesses, and the jury returned the following verdict:

We, the jury summoned to inquire into the cause of the death of the body now lying here before us, do find that his name is Wm. Sullivan, that his age is about 35 years, and that he came to his death by accidental drowning in the Willamette river.

It is stated by one who was acquainted with Sullivan that he had a father living in the city and also a sister who lives with the family of John Lofland, master boat-builder on the O. R. & N. Co.

THE "PORTLAND."

Description of the New Hotel to be Built by Northern Pacific Terminal Company.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—Plans for the proposed hotel to be built in Portland judging from a photograph given to John Muir, superintendent of traffic, previous to his departure from Chicago by Henry Villard, contemplate the erection of an imposing and substantial edifice. The style of architecture is French renaissance which will be strictly adhered to. The main building is five stories high and has two wings projecting forward and forming a court yard with hexagonal towers. An entrance at the angles of the outer wall of the court yard is formed by an arched colonnade with a driveway in the center. A full English basement supports corners of bow windows, which rise to the roof of the wings, enclosing [illegible] windows which also figure on the main building. Besides the towers and surmounting the column of arched windows at the ends of the building, are two large clocks.

The style of architecture is the same that will be pursued in construction of the [illegible], of essentially Norman. The center structure has a angular trussed roof with a series of archways at the bottom and a large semi-circular window overhead with heavy tracery. On either side there will be large square towers with pointed roof, below which are the clocks. Stretching still further from the towers are long two story buildings with arched entrances, joining the extreme ends with three storied houses which will be reserved for the officers. Both the hotel and railroad depot combine elements of beauty and spaciousness. The general appearance of the hotel is such as to remind one of a baronial castle with the innovation of bow windows and is well calculated to impress a spectator with the elegance of its design.

THE PINE STREET FERRY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A recent communication to THE OREGONIAN, purporting to come from "One Who Knows" that the Pine Street ferry is "Not Buried Yet," is encouraging to interested parties, as far as the fact cited is concerned. But when he imputes the cause of its protracted suspension of animation to the action, or rather non-action, of the attorneys for the company his [illegible] becomes a gross misnomer, and to "others who know" it would appear equally pertinent to attach a label proclaiming, "This is a horse," on a stubborn, long-eared specimen of the species. This knowing individual professes to know that nothing concerning the case has been presented to Judge Stott since last spring, when he decided the motion for a preliminary injunction, and supplements this knowledge with the gratuitous advice, "If parties interested are anxious to have anything done further in the matter, they had better have their attorneys bring the case on for trial, as is their privilege at any time." The attorneys for the company who also profess to know something about the matter, claim that after the application for a preliminary injunction against D. P. Thompson, J. N. Dolph and the O. R. & N. Co., to restrain them from obstructing the Pine street ferry landing, was decided against the company, testimony was taken before a gentleman appointed by Judge Stott in the suit of the company claiming the right of using the foot of Pine street as a ferry landing, such right being based upon an ordinance passed in 1859, which established a ferry landing at the place designated. This testimony was submitted to the court over four months ago, and it devolves upon the judge to set a time for the argument of the case, and it is not the privilege of the company's attorney to "bring the case on for trial at any time." If such were the privilege of the attorneys, it has certainly been denied them for application to Judge Stott for the purpose stated by attorneys for both plaintiff and defendants have only been met by refusal. Meantime the court's delay in setting a day for the hearing of the case has given defendants time to build a wharf across the foot of Pine street 22 feet above low water, though contrary to law. If the matter is "not buried yet," it is about time it were given opportunity to assert its [illegible] to be interred, and when such opportunity is given, if ever it is, it is likely to prove one of the most lively corpses ever witnessed. The Pine Street Ferry Company, however, enjoy the consolation arising from having an abundance of company in their misery, and as an instance of the inertia of the present court, the newspaper injunction may be cited. No wonder, therefore, that the Wake is warbler is constrained to warble:

> And so the town is dreary
> With skeletons and ghosts,
> In darksome doorways gliding
> Or propping awning posts.
> And lawyers hid in cellars
> Dare not come forth, you bet
> Lest some grim wraith should whisper,
> "Is that decided yet?"

Am [illegible] of Walla Walla; first saw R. P. Thompson [illegible] on January 11. He gave me [illegible] from San Francisco [illegible] Thompson [illegible] wanted to see them [illegible] he was dressed [illegible] Tennessee.

AFFIDAVIT OF [illegible]

Am 30 years old, [illegible] Marshall, [illegible] with F. M. Sebring [illegible] on Monday, January 22 [illegible] heard that one Thompson, alias Hale, who arrived from San Francisco with Mr. Sebring and family and my brother, was ill with smallpox; that Sebring said he would have told me [illegible] Thompson, alias Hale, had not told him that the chief of police of Portland had examined him (Thompson), and [illegible] been because it was [illegible] that was then broken out on him (Thompson).

AFFIDAVIT OF [illegible]

Am clerk in Stine house in this city, on January 11 a man arrived on train from Portland dressed in plain clothing; wanted a room; said he was sick; wanted to go to bed, hesitated before signing register; finally signed R. P. Thompson; gave him room 35; next saw him at Dr. Marion's office. Dr. Marion said a man who gave the name of Hale was in his office sick with smallpox, who said he came from room 35 in Stine house. I identified him as the man who signed as R. P. Thompson; asked him why he did not register as Hale at hotel; said he knew it, said he didn't know very well what he was doing, or words to that effect; the train he came on arrived here about 9 A. M. January 11.

AFFIDAVIT OF EZRA G. MARSHALL.

Am a farmer lately from the east; a man named Thompson, who was very sick, bunked near me on the steamer from San Francisco, went from the steamer to the Norton house in Portland in a hack with said Thompson. Captain Gorman keeps this hotel; next day Thompson came near me in the bar room of said house, and I saw there was an eruption on his face; told him I thought he had the measles; had doctors examine him; doctors said he had a bad case; Captain Gorman got a doctor, who pronounced it rash; Thompson came with me to the cars and we came to Walla Walla together; we went to the Stine house; staid over night; next day went to Weston; Thompson went around Portland; I was with him some; thought he had the measles; Thompson was sick all the way from Portland to Walla Walla; we left him sick at the Stine house; F. M. Sebring, who was with us, took smallpox and died; I was also taken down with the same disease; Sebring's wife and children are now in the Weston pest house with smallpox; Sebring was blind five days before he died; was unable to speak; don't believe he ever had a conversation with Dr. T. F. Smith, as detailed by that gentleman.

AFFIDAVIT OF WILLIAM J. KING.

Am a farmer and live near Weston; nursed F. M. Sebring, who died of smallpox on Feb. 5th; that he and his brother buried Sebring; he also knows Dr. T. F. Smith, who treated Sebring for smallpox; I have repeated heard Dr. Smith say that Thompson, alias Hale, at Walla Walla, did not have the smallpox; that Thompson has told Sebring and Sebring had told Dr. Smith that Lappeus, chief of police in Portland, had examined Thompson and told him he did not have smallpox; that eruptions were caused by cold and exposure at sea; that he (Thompson) would soon be well, and then turned Thompson loose to go where he pleased; Dr. Smith said he was acquainted with Lappeus; that Lappeus had had the smallpox; he had more experience with it than most doctors; he would not make a mistake and let Thompson go if he had the smallpox; when Dr. Smith examined Sebring he pronounced it smallpox and treated it as such till he died.

J. M. King being sworn said he had heard Dr. Smith make the same statement.

AFFIDAVIT OF DR. T. W. SLOAN.

Am health officer of Walla Walla. First saw R. P. Thompson on the 14th of January. He was afflicted with smallpox; heard Dr. Marion ask him why he said his name was T. W. Hale, said he didn't know what he was saying—made a mistake; told me that his name was Thompson; that he arrived in Walla Walla on the 11th of January from Portland; said he came from Missouri, via San Francisco, to Portland; he was close [illegible] feet in height; weight 160 or 170, said he was [illegible] years old; mustache medium length; beard about ten days old; hair and moustache dark sandy; complexion light; had on dark woolen shirt, buttoned up close; eruption extended all over body and limbs; evidence that eruption was three days old; was removed from Dr. Marion's office to pest house; died next day, January 17th, nurse gave me letters found among his things addressed to T. W. Hale; were from Mollie McCorkle, Decatur; one from his sister, addressed a letter to W. H. Smith, Sweetwater, Tenn., and received answer that it was certainly T. W. Hale; also stating that recommendations signed by W. H. Smith were forged. A letter from Miss Mary Hale, Riceville, Tenn., stated that T. W. Hale left home on the 11th of December, 1882; his father, John G. Hale, wrote me that he had not heard from his son since December 15, 1882.

AFFIDAVIT OF J. F. FLINN.

Sebring told me and Dr. Smith that Thompson had been examined at the Norton House in Portland by a doctor who said the eruptions were thrush or rash, and that afterward Lappeus, chief of police, had examined Thompson and said that the eruptions were not smallpox but caused by cold and exposure, and Dr. Smith then remarked that he was sure Lappeus had had much experience and would hardly be mistaken.

After reading the affidavits the committee directed subpenas to issue to parties in this city, who are supposed to have information on the subject and adjourned until next Tuesday night at 7:30.

NEWS OF SATURDAY.

From the Sunday Oregonian

The Sun on Chinese Vices

NEW YORK, March 10.—Sun's editorial [illegible] cry of cheap labor raised again [illegible] the Chinese of the Pacific [illegible] there is room for [illegible] other ground [illegible] of opium smoking [illegible] the practice [illegible] and while all are [illegible] the most [illegible] ground [illegible] Monday [illegible] have adopted [illegible] gambling, that are rapidly growing in public because they [illegible] promising large gains. It is becoming apparent that the legislature must look sharply at Chinese ways [illegible]

Destruction of Timber

NEW YORK, March 10.—The Times says California has for years been almost wanton in her destruction of timber land by axe and by fire and how is beginning to suffer serious consequences in the shape of drouth. Valleys whose rainfall was never [illegible] the requirements of agriculture have been growing more and more sterile for several years and both wheat and vines have failed in many portions of the state and only legislation can prevent the further laying bare of mountains whose verdure ultimately affects crops. It seems strange that this well known fact has failed to take shape in the legislative halls of a state so largely given to agriculture, but no steps seem to have been taken by the otherwise energetic and wide-awake Californians and the ruinous waste continues.

The Racing Outlook at Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 10.—The list of entries for the special stakes offered by the Chicago Driving Park, for the summer trotting meeting of 1883 and 1884, presents a flattering showing. In the Ashland stakes for 1883 there are 35 entries, and in the same stake for 1884 25. In the Chicago stakes for 1883 there are 24 entries and for 1884, 59. Entries are coming from all parts of the country, including New York, Texas, Massachusetts and California. Among the entries are the following from California: J. W. Mackay, San Francisco, b m by Sultan, dam Volunteer; also b f by Sultan, dam Bell.

A Companion of a Fugitive Senator

UTICA, N. Y., March 10.—William H. Yost of Theresa, N. Y., who died in Scotland yesterday, was a companion of the fugitive ex-Senator Spencer, of Alabama, who is wanted in the star route cases. About two years ago he left his wife, who recently commenced a suit for alimony, and he endeavored to sell his farm and get rid of his property, valued at $40,000 or $50,000. His farm was sold at referee's sale in Watertown recently.

Death of a Well Known Civil Engineer.

NEW YORK, March 10.—James Otis Morse, formerly well known as a civil engineer, and for the last thirty-two years a dealer in iron at No 76, John street, this city, died at the United States hospital Thursday night of apoplexy. Morse was a son of Judge J. O. Morse. He was born at Cherry Valley, Otsego county, in 1817.

Danger Prophets.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The storm of great energy which first appeared at midnight on the North Carolina coast, has pursued a northeasterly track, and is now central near the Delaware breakwater. Dangerous northeast winds are anticipated to-day and to-night on the New England coast, followed to-morrow by clearing weather and westerly winds.

The Japanese Envoys.

NEW YORK, March 10.—One of the Japanese envoys told a reporter that they went directly from San Francisco to Honolulu, and having participated in the ceremonies on February 12th, started on a visit through the United States before returning to their home. They will stay in this city until Monday when they will go to Boston.

Herr Most's Lecture.

NEW YORK, March 10.—At a meeting of socialists last night Herr Most delivered a lecture on anarchy. He spoke in German and his remarks elicited much applause from the audience. He was in favor of the abolition of all existing governments, as they were only the means of oppressing the people.

Bogardus and Carver will Travel.

ST. LOUIS, March 10.—Bogardus and Carver have closed a contract to give 25 exhibitions in different cities, the winner of each exhibition to receive $300 of the gate money, and whenever one beats the second he is to receive $100 extra.

Ordered to Blockade.

VIENNA, March 10.—The commander of the French squadron in Madagascar waters has been ordered to blockade the shore and occupy the several ports of the island, but not to send troops into the interior.

A Phoenix Park Murderer.

NEW YORK, March 10.—A special from Milwaukee says Michael Holmes, who recently died there from a stab wound, confessed so much that he is popularly believed to be one of the Phoenix park murderers.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Louise Michel's Followers.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Herald's Paris special: The manifestations of workmen announced for to-day, at one time assumed disquieting proportions. Louise Michel climbed the ladder of a bill poster, near the Rue Tarit, and harangued a crowd. The police drove back the orator and audience, into avenues leading into the Esplanades des Anvalides. Six persons were arrested. Among them was Mlle Kratey, formerly prefect of police.

Towards 5 o'clock a crowd formed before the Palace Bourbon. Having refused to disperse they were charged by the cavalry, and fled. On the left bank of the Seine a column of rioters, with Louise Michel at its head and holding a black flag, committed some outrages. At half past five an enormous crowd again assembled on the Esplande des Invalides, the boulevard, La Tour Fonbarg, the place de la Concorde, and the Quai de Orsay, where the cavalry charged several times. A number of persons were wounded. By half past eight the crowd had all been dispersed and order was restored. Little importance attached to the outbreak.

The Land League Implicated.

LONDON, March 10.—The Times says: We have good reason to believe that the inquiry now proceeding will implicate the land league beyond a doubt, in the immediate patronage of crime in Ireland. Even if it does not establish a direct connection with the invincibles, the flight of Patrick Egan, unless explained, is a moral acknowledgement of guilt from the damning consequences of which some of his associates can not escape. Unless Egan can clear his own and his associates' characters, we shall not be surprised to learn that leaders of the land league who still remain in the United Kingdom may shortly find it convenient to follow Egan's example.

Biggar Appeals.

LONDON, March 10.—Biggar appeals against the decision in the breach of promise suit brought against him by Fanny Hyland. Miss Hyland's solicitor states that Patrick Egan was subpoenaed but failed to appear.

Filling up the Ranks.

LONDON, March 10.—A correspondent of the Times at Dublin states the enrollment of recruits in the ranks of the invincibles still proceeds notwithstanding the readiness of men now in prison to betray one another.

An American Rewarded.

PARIS, March 10.—T. Kurtick Riggs, the American who did good service during the war of 1870 in the ambulance corps of the Bois de Boulogne, was rewarded with the cross of the Legion of Honor to-day.

Postmaster and his Salary

WASHINGTON, March 11.—[illegible] question whether the treasury department can legally withhold [illegible] the treasury [illegible] secretary [illegible] attention [illegible] to consider [illegible] withhold the salary of a representative [illegible] as tending to interfere with their constitutional prerogative. Secretary Folger [illegible] has the question [illegible] under consideration [illegible] comptroller, protesting against [illegible] ing that his salary be withheld from him until a settlement of his account as marshal of Texas.

Yellowstone Lease

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The secretary of the interior to-day formally leased to Carroll T. Hobart of Fargo, Dakota, Henry F. Douglas of [illegible] Dakota and Rufus Hatch of New York a number of small tracts of land in the Yellowstone national park for a period of ten years. The lease comprises seven tracts of land aggregating [illegible] acres. It is provided that the several parcels of lands shall not be within one quarter of a mile of any geysers or Yellowstone Falls. The parties of the second part agree to construct one principal hotel at the Mammoth hot springs to cost $150,000. They further agree to construct six smaller hotels upon plans to be hereafter approved by the secretary of the interior. It is provided that at the expiration of ten years the value of the buildings and other permanent improvements belonging to the lessee shall be determined by arbitration and become the absolute property of the government upon settlement of the appraisement and the appropriation of the amount agreed to. The annual rental agreed upon is two dollars per acre.

The Yellowstone Hotel.

The company that leased [illegible] in Yellowstone park shrewdly selected small tracts widely separated in the immediate neighborhood of the most attractive spots that visitors will be likely to seek. The lease does not actually cover the space occupied by the geysers and springs and falls. There is an acre and a half close to the canyon of the great fall, another tract of the same size 25 feet from the lower falls, then two acres at Mammoth springs where the $150,000 hotel is to be erected, another is on the Madison river, near the western boundary of the park, another lies a quarter of a mile from Old Faithful, and another in a few feet of Soda Butte springs. The prescribed cost of the hotel at Mammoth hot springs to include the cost of electric light machinery, furniture and outbuildings is $150,000. Other hotels and buildings, to be approved by the secretary of the interior, are to be erected in the vicinity of the Tower falls, Riverside geysers, Yellowstone lake, Soda Butte springs and the great falls. The lessees are to pay $2 per acre each year and upon the expiration of ten years, or the termination of the lease by a failure to comply with its conditions, the buildings may be purchased by the government at an appraisement by three persons, one to be selected by the secretary of the interior, one by the lessees, and the third by those two.

The Charges against Architect Hill.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Secretary Folger says he has decided to order an investigation of the charges preferred against Supervising Architect Hill but until he has determined how the investigation shall be made, refuses to make the charges public. Gossip here is that the supervising architect was in collusion with New England granite men who through this official influence, were enabled to furnish material for the construction of public buildings. The names of several prominent public men including ex-Secretary Blaine, Gov. Butler and Senators Rollins and Hale are given by the gossips as those who were in collusion with the supervising architect. It is understood that the charges were made by ex-Representative Frotch of Maine who has long been of the opinion that corruption existed in the supervising architect's office. Hill says he has no knowledge of what the charges are but he does not fear an investigation, as the business of his office will be found to be perfectly straightforward and clean.

Will not Interfere.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The secretary of the navy has written to the superintendent of the naval academy relative to the cases of certain cadets deficient in conduct at the recent semi-annual examination, stating the intention of the department not to interfere with the rules adopted by the academic board. The secretary leaves the final disposition of the cases with the superintendent. The secretary recommends that leniency be shown those cadets whose conduct was the result of youthful thoughtlessness. Their future career should [illegible] by dismissal for light causes, but the welfare of the academy should be considered.

Sheridan Probably Safe.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The state department has received no intimation of the intentions of the British government relative to the execution of the warrants for the arrest of P. J. Sheridan. Inquiry at the British legation elicited the information that while no further steps have been taken in the matter, no instruction from the home government has been received to abandon further proceedings. There is reason to believe that the matter will not be pressed unless the British government feels assured that it can make out a case which will satisfy the state department that extradition should be granted.

Dorsey Makes Another Denial

Ex-Senator Dorsey furnishes the following: A dispatch from Denver states that the so-called Balford check was really given to J. B. Bissell, their initials being the same. There seems to be a determination to insist that there was such a check and Bissell's name is selected. Question—Don't remember it. I certainly never gave him such a check, and never played a game of cards for money on the cars in my life, with anybody. There never was such a check issued by me or an account in my books in the name of J. B. Bissell.

Pacific Coastward.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Senator Edmunds left last Friday for Aiken, South Carolina, where he has gone to join his family. He proposes to go to New Orleans with his family, and from here will make a trip to the Pacific coast. He will probably remain, with his family in California for the greater part of the summer.

Senator and Mrs. Sherman, and ex-Representative Hubbell are a few among those who intend making a California tour this summer.

Director of the mint and Mrs. Burchard will also make a trip to the Pacific coast this spring.

Naval Retirements.

Rear Admiral J. W. A. Nicholson, lately in command of the European station and placed on the retired list yesterday by operation of law, is succeeded in command of the European station by Rear Admiral C. H. Baldwin formerly a member of the lighthouse board. Rear Admiral E. R. Calhoun will be retired April next. These two retirements will make a vacancy in the list of rear admirals, which will be filled by the promotion of Commander W. R. Shufeldt, now on duty with the naval advisory board.

A Big Libel Suit.

Thos. Worthington of Ohio has filed suit against E. W. Keightly, third auditor of the U. S. treasury, for $30,000 damages on account of what are described by the complaint as "hundreds of false, malicious libelous, groundless, [illegible] letters [illegible] and intended to prevent the payment by the U. S. government of plaintiff's just claims for army supplies in 1861.

Will Prepare Rules.

Members of the civil service commission called at the executive mansion this afternoon and had a short conference with the president in regard to the general plan of operations to be observed in carrying the law into effect. It was agreed that the commission should prepare a set of rules in regard to questions under their jurisdiction, and submit them to the president for approval.

The New Men-of-War.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Chandler has instructed the naval advisory board to proceed at once and prepare plans for the new United States war vessels, provided for by congress, consisting of three steel cruisers and two torpedo boats, also to arrange for the completion and repairs of four unfinished monitors. It is thought the first contracts will be given out in two months.

Cannot Draw his Salary

Theodore F. Singiser, newly elected delegate from Idaho, was appointed secretary of that territory some years ago and is still under bonds for the performance of the duties of that office. First Comptroller of the Treasury Lawrence holds that until his accounts are settled he cannot draw his salary as delegate, even though it has not been alleged that there is anything wrong with the accounts. Treasurer Gilfillan decides that there is nothing to prevent his drawing his salary and will pay it as it becomes due.

La Conner Mail: The Whatcom colony is reported to be gathering in strength and vitality and there is every prospect now of the terms of the undertaking with Capt. Roeder and others as to the character of the enterprises to be established by that association being carried out to the letter. We are informed that the Seattle flour and great mill will be removed to and established at Whatcom, that from twenty five to thirty houses called for in the arrangement with the original property owners will be built this spring and summer and that in addition thereto a wharf will be built to deep water. All this bespeaks activity and determination worthy of the growing prospects of Whatcom and Bellingham Bay.

A Little Girl's Prayer

A friend tells us this about a little girl four years old. She had then got ready for bed, and when her aunt went in the room to say good night she found the little one saying her prayers. This is what she said:

> Now I lay me down to sleep
> I pray the Lord my soul to keep
> If I should die before I wake—

Here a thought struck her after pausing a moment she added: "What a rumpus there would be in the house!" She then repeated the concluding line of the prayer and scrambled into bed.

A newspaper in San Francisco devoted to matrimonial advertisements contains this: "A young widow, fair complexion, full form, brown hair, blue eyes, middle stature, fine bust, broad shoulders, full hips, perfect formation, is running a little grocery store in the city and wants a kind, good husband with a little money to increase her business." If this thing keeps on matrimonially inclined females will soon have to undergo the same searching examination that is required of applicants for admission to Annapolis or West Point.

Important to bachelors: There seems to be a good opening for the right man in the following, which speaks for itself: "Husband dead a year ago. If gentleman feeling inclined to fill the vacancy, address Mrs. Elizabeth Egl[illegible] Comanche, [illegible] My age is 40 years, height 5½ feet, weight 275 pounds, complexion dark, hair dark, [illegible] and I have false teeth in the lower jaw. NEW YORK FREIGHT MARKET

NEW YORK, March 10.—No material change to note in clipper freights. The market, which is more than fairly active, shows usual quietness incident to this season. Of ships in berth, the F. L. Whitmore is most advanced and will [illegible] full early next week. The Peruvian has most of her cargo engaged and with pleasant weather should get away in ten days, leaving but three ships in berth, two of which have nearly 2000 tons of coal and railroad iron to go on board, thus reducing the capacity for general cargo to a narrow limit. Rates steady on basis of $5@9 per ton. Freights to Portland more active, and both the Carrie Winslow and St. Lucie will leave next week.

Freights via the Isthmus are fairly active and the steamer [illegible] to day has on California account 2500 kgs nails and a lot of pipe, iron, etc.

At Philadelphia and Boston freights are quiet with no vessel on berth. This fact helps New York market as most offerings are sent here for shipment. Overland freights at Boston rather active. Shipments past week, 888 pkgs fish, 1960 cs goods, 600 bxs candles, 3 cs wine, 82 pkgs tobacco, also for British Columbia 180 ½ bbls and 30 bxs sugar, 15 kgs syrup, 34 pkgs tobacco.

No movement is yet made in regard to reduced rates of Sunset route and none will be made for a while yet or until the full effect upon all rail routes can be felt. The only uneasiness seems to be on the part of the Union Pacific road whose general freight agent has telegraphed trunk lines urging them to assist them by cutting rates. This the latter lines will not do as they cannot see why they should in view of the rates heretofore received at the hands of this general agent.

SAVED FROM THE GRAVE.

Mrs. [illegible] J. Smith of Eastland, Texas writes: [illegible] terribly afflicted with Kidney Disease and Dropsy, having suffered for over three years. I employed the best physicians in this country and obtained no relief but was getting rapidly worse. My family and friends had lost all hope. My son happened to read your advertisement of Hunt's Remedy and procured the medicine for me. I began to take it and it worked like a charm. After taking several bottles I became entirely well. I am indebted to Hunt's Remedy for saving my life and cannot say too much for your great medicine. I am sure I would have been in my grave to-day.

Internal Revenue Department, Washington, D. C.

Mr. [illegible] Washington D. C. says: A member of my family having been troubled for several years with Kidney Disease and after trying numerous remedies and methods of treatment without obtaining relief she was induced to use your Hunt's Remedy and after a thorough trial she became completely cured. Knowing the facts in this case I cheerfully recommend its use to any one afflicted with diseases above noted.

Acts Like a Charm.

I have used Hunt's Remedy for kidney trouble and recommended it to others and always found it to act like a charm.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

To the Stockholders of the Oregon and California Railroad company:

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED THAT THE annual meeting of the stockholders of the Oregon and California Railroad company will be held at the office of the company, at the city of Portland, county of Multnomah and State of Oregon, on Tuesday, the 10th day of April, 1883, at 11 o'clock A. M., of said day, for the purpose of electing directors of said company, to serve for the ensuing year, and transacting such other business as may come before the meeting.

And you are further notified that in pursuance of a resolution duly passed at a meeting of the board of directors of said company held at the office of the company March 5, 1883, the following resolution, authorizing the filing of supplementary articles of incorporation of said company, will be submitted to said annual stockholders' meeting, for consideration and adoption, viz:

Resolved, That the directors of this corporation be, and they are hereby instructed and directed to file, as soon as the same can be reasonably prepared and executed—supplementary articles of incorporation, amending Article III of the present articles of this company, as amended by the supplementary articles heretofore filed by inserting after the seventh subdivision of said Article III, substantially the following subdivisions:

Eighth: With the consent of the holders of an absolute majority in amount of the preferred stock of the company at the time actually issued and outstanding, to sell and dispose of its railroad and property, or any part thereof, to lease, devise and let to any other company or corporation incorporated under the laws of Oregon, authorized to operate railroads and transact business in the state of Oregon, all and singular, its railroad and telegraph line then constructed or to be constructed or any portion thereof with said tracks, depots, warehouses, stockyards, locomotives, cars, and other rolling stock, machinery and fixtures and appurtenances, [illegible] and ferry boats and all lands, easements, rights of way and property used in connection therewith; to enter into any operating or traffic contract or any contract in the nature of a lease with any such other company or corporation, transferring to such company or corporation the management and operation of its railroads or any part thereof; to consolidate with any other corporation, to lease and operate the railroad or railroads of any corporation; to guarantee the payment of and assume the liabilities [illegible] other corporation for bonds, coupons, dividends [illegible] or otherwise; to file supplementary articles of [illegible] to engage in new enterprises; to increase its preferred or common capital stock or both, and to construct and equip a railroad and telegraph line with all necessary branches from a point at or near Forest Grove in Washington county, Oregon, to Astoria in Clatsop county, Oregon; to connect with its existing railroad, and to operate and maintain the same and carry freight and passengers thereon and receive tolls therefor.

Ninth: To construct and equip a railroad and telegraph line, with all necessary branches from the city of Portland in Multnomah county, Oregon, via Hillsboro and McMinnville to Corvallis in Benton county, Oregon, and a railroad and telegraph line with all necessary branches from Corvallis, in Benton county, Oregon, to a junction with [illegible] in Lane county, Oregon and to maintain and operate the same and transport freight and passengers thereon and to receive tolls therefor.

[illegible] to construct [illegible] and maintain a railroad bridge or [illegible] and wagon road bridge or bridges across the Willamette river between the cities of Portland and East Portland, or at or above or below said cities [illegible] its present railroads, and to collect and receive tolls for the passage of railroad trains and cars, goods [illegible] teams, wagons and other [illegible] live stock and foot passengers over the same.
